SELIHOT: Preparing for Rememberance and Judgment

By Ron Meyers

In parashat Behaalotecha this summer we read of the Israelites' procedures for moving through the desert. God would manifest in a flame by night and a cloud during the day, and when the cloud would rise from its position on top of the Tent of Meeting, it was time to decamp and move on. As is always the case though, it was not possible for all of the hundreds of thousands to perceive God's signals directly or to respond immediately. So God ordained the practice of sounding trumpets to signal the command to recommence the journey.

We are in a period now of sounding the trumpet. From the first day of Elul, we blow the shofar, not to mobilize ourselves geographically as was done in the wilderness, but to mobilize ourselves spiritually. The great spiritual demands of the High Holidays are approaching, and we cannot simply leap into action when they arrive. We rouse ourselves this month with the shofar blast to build ourselves up to the task. In this period of the year, we are also guided into the Holidays by the seven haftarot of consolation that are recited each Shabbat from Tisha B'Av to Rosh Hashanah. "Comfort ye", Isaiah reassures us, following the commemoration of the destruction of the Temple. But don't get too comfortable, the shofar reminds us, for there is great spiritual work ahead.

These preparations all lead to the great observances of the High Holidays, which begin with Rosh Hashanah on the evening of September 26th. But the preparations themselves culminate in the beautiful Selihot service, to be held this year on September 20th at 10:00 p.m. This service begins the penitential prayers recited each morning until Yom Kippur. It is here that we gather quietly to begin in earnest the business of reflection and forgiveness, entering and sustaining the frame of mind that will enable us to be renewed as we enter another year.

New Beginnings at Congregation Or Zarua

By Ilana Burgess

Summertime for an educator is a time of Heshbon Nefesh (soul searching). This is a wonderful opportunity to evaluate your achievements in the last year, your goals for the coming year, and your ideas for reaching them. I think that for a Jewish educator the task is twice as important. Why?

As Jewish educators, we teach not only information and skills, but also the beliefs, values and commitment to Judaism that make up a way of life. All these thoughts and feelings went through my mind as I worked during the summer to revise and to build the curriculum for the Or Zarua Hebrew School. What do I want to see happen everyday within the walls of the school? I want to see the school have a firm academic base, in an environment that is interesting and creative. We have a strong outline in place that is flexible enough to incorporate recommendations from students, parents, and teachers. During Shabbatot we will continue with the OZY programs for the children and we are also planning to add a Hebrew speaking class for middle and high schools student.

I am very pleased to join the Congregation as the new Youth Education Director. For the last 30 years I have been involved in the Jewish communities where I lived and worked as an educator and volunteered as a lay person in different organizations. Jewish education is very important to me because of my background. I grew up in post-war Hungary in a diaspora that was very anti-Semitic, but my parents still educated their children to be proud Jews, to know about Israel, our heritage and values, and to love and enjoy our holidays. The memory of my parents has always helped me with the challenges I face everyday as a Jewish parent and educator.

After 16 years of living and working in Israel, I was a principal and a teacher for 15 years in West Palm Beach, Florida. For the past two years I have worked as a Hebrew and Bible teacher at the Solomon Schechter High School of New York. Life in New York City is very exciting and full of adventure for me. What I enjoy most are classes that I can take at the "Y" and at JTS and being close to my son Nathan and his wife Deena.

I would like to thank everybody for their warm reception, with a special thank you to Rabbi Wechsler, Aliza Kaplan, Alisa Doctoroff, Anne Schneider, Barbara and Lidiya for being helpful and for answering all of my questions with a smile and a warm heart.

I wish all of you a happy and healthy New Year. May we all be written and sealed in the Book of Life. L'shanah tovah.

Editor's Note

The OZ Newsletter welcomes articles submitted by Congregants. Articles should be no longer than 250 words and may be edited for length and clarity. They should be submitted by e-mail (as an attachment, as well as pasted into the text) to the office at admin@orzarua.org.

In order for our newsletter to maintain a bimonthly schedule, all articles must be received six weeks before the issue date. The upcoming deadlines are: Wednesday, September 24th for the November/December issue and Wednesday, November 26th for the January/February issue.

Many thanks for helping the newsletter to appear in a timely fashion.

CELEBRATING SUKKOT

Once again OZ members will have the opportunity to fulfill the commandment of eating in the sukkah which will be erected on the roof of our building.

There will be a catered Shabbat dinner on October 10th and lunch on October 11th. Reservation forms are due in the office on or before Tuesday, October 7th. Dinner will be served at approximately 7:15 p.m., immediately following Kabbalat Shabbat services, which will begin at 6:03 p.m. Lunch on Saturday, October 11th will follow services.

We hope that you will want to attend both of these festive meals. However, since space is limited, please indicate whether you want to attend both meals or only one. If you want to attend both meals, please indicate which meal you would prefer to attend. We will do our best to accommodate as many people as possible. Please complete the reservation form on page 9 and send your check and completed form to the office by October 7th.

Congregants who would like to bring their own kosher meals to the sukkah on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings, October 12th, 13th, and 14th may make reservations by calling the OZ office. Remember to clean up when you are finished!

Additionally, there will be limited seating on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, when the Hebrew School students will be having dinner in the sukkah. If you would like to eat in the sukkah on either October 15th or 16th, please call the office to ensure your place at the table.

A special treat will be available for parents with young children. During the week of Sukkot, there will be a family lunch with a Jonathan Bayer music program. Watch your mail for complete details.

SINFUL DESSERTS AND... REPENTANCE

An evening of community will usher in the Yomim Noraim for Congregation Or Zarua. Beginning at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, September 20th, members will gather for a dessert reception. That will be followed by Rabbi Wechsler's selihot lecture on Rabbi Kook's mystical ideas of repentance. At 10:00 p.m., Selihot services will be held in the sanctuary. Everyone is invited.

New Publications by Rabbi Wechsler

Completely Honest Weights: A Source Book on Judaism, Business and Ethics for Our Time

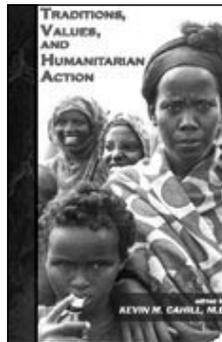

Rabbi Wechsler, together with Marc Sternfeld, a rabbinical student at the Jewish Theological Seminary, has published Completely Honest Weights: A Source Book on Judaism, Business and Ethics for Our Time. This booklet brings together the sacred sources of our tradition with modern day examples of their application, thus clarifying for us our moral roles in the contemporary marketplace. Rabbi Wechsler's English translation and commentary of Tractate Bava Metzia, Chapter 4 and modern business cases will spark many a discussion about how we go about earning our livelihood—ethically and legally.

Our Congregation studied from this booklet at our Tikkun Leyl Shavuot, and it is being distributed throughout the country in Conservative synagogues for programming during the year. Call the synagogue office if you would like to purchase copies.

Traditions, Values, and Humanitarian Action

Fordham University Press has published its third volume on International Human Affairs, which includes an essay by Rabbi Wechsler. This pioneering series addresses fundamental questions at the heart of humanitarian actions: How do different religious, cultural, and social systems—and the values they support—shape humanitarian action? What are the bases of caring societies? Are there universal values for human well-being?

Original essays by international experts explore mandates for humanitarian action in various religious traditions. Rabbi Wechsler's essay, "For the Sake of My Kin and My Friends," is a theological study of the sources for humanitarian action in the Bible and in the Talmud. It serves to present the classical Jewish view of concern for the welfare of others and is complemented by the presentations of Avery Cardinal Dulles, Professor of Catholic theology at Fordham, and Prince El Hassan Bin Talal of Jordan, who presents the view of Islam. Other chapters are contributed by Kofi Annan and Tom Brokaw.

TALMUD CLASS TAKES A TURN

Ever since the founding of Congregation Or Zarua, the Talmud class has met on Wednesday evenings and studied a wide variety of ritual subjects. As a result of the study of Masechet Sukkah, for example, Or Zarua built its first sukkah according to the principals learned in the Talmud. Last spring, after eight years of study, we completed the entire tractate of Berakhot—a study of various prayers recited on different occasions. And now for something new.

Beginning on Wednesday evening, October 22nd at 8:00 p.m., we will begin the study of Masechet Bava Kamma, the first Talmudic tractate that deals with civil law. The first chapter of Bava Kamma is a study of the laws of damages, what we hold people responsible for when they damage someone else's property.

The Talmud class is open to all, with or without background, and it meets from 8:00 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday. Please purchase volume one of the Art Scroll Bava Kamma, which will be the Hebrew-English text used in class.

FRANCINE KLAGSBRUN TO DISCUSS The Fourth Commandment

The Book Discussion Series opens a year of reading and discussing good Jewish books on Sunday, September 7th in the OZ library with acclaimed author, columnist and lecturer Francine Klagsbrun, who will join us to discuss her recently published book, The Fourth Commandment: Remember the Sabbath Day. Don't wait until Yom Kippur afternoon to learn with Francine. Cynthia Ozick writes, "To enter this radiant book—whatever your background or experience—is to have your life renewed." Drawing on Bible, Talmud, Kabbalah and family history, the book is a most readable, personal and affectionate exploration of the meaning of remembering and observing the Sabbath.

Congregants and their guests are welcome to attend Or Zarua's Book Discussion Series. Participating in book discussions at OZ is a wonderful way for congregants to learn and get to know one another in a casual setting. We choose fiction and non-fiction with Jewish subjects or content, both classic and contemporary works. Leadership of our discussions rotates among our members. We meet in the Or Zarua library on the 4th floor about once every six weeks on Sunday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Light refreshments are served.

Mark your calendars for the following gathering as well. On Sunday evening, October 26th we will discuss Adjusting Sights by Haim Sabato, a short novel offering an observant Israeli soldier's response to tank combat on the Golan front in the 1973 war and the loss of a close friend.

SHABBAT LUNCH

Saturday, November 1st

Our first Congregational Shabbat Lunch for 5764 will be held on Saturday, November 1st. As usual, there will be an outstanding program. In addition, as this is the first Shabbat of the month, we will also have Minhah, Seudah Shlishit, Ma'ariv and Havdalah in the late afternoon. Please watch your mail for reservations.

HESED COMMITTEE

Programs for the New Year

Celebrate the New Year with DOROT

For our fourth consecutive year, Congregation Or Zarua will participate in DOROT's annual Rosh Hashanah food delivery to the homebound elderly. Please join other volunteers on Sunday, September 21st at 11:00 a.m. at the 92nd Street Y, and help bring the taste of a sweet New Year and the joy of friendship to those who are often alone during the High Holy Days.

All volunteers will first receive a short orientation about DOROT and the visit in which they will participate. Then one to three volunteers will visit their assigned senior for about an hour. If you would like to volunteer for this wonderful act of hesed, please contact Aaron Shelden at 212-734-4004 (day), 212-734-2888 (eve), or ashelden@aol.com. Families are encouraged to participate—all ages are welcome—it's a truly lovely experience.

Books for Israel

With the Israeli economy struggling, the Books for Israel Project is seeking donations of English language books for Israeli public schools. Or Zarua will help by holding a book collection drive during the month of September. You can help by donating books, making a donation to the Hesed Fund to help pay for shipping, or by volunteering to sort and pack books. Our collection sites will be in the Or Zarua social hall and on the sixth floor. Please donate gently-used or new books appropriate for school use. Of particular interest are encyclopedias, children's science and reference books, history books, classic fiction, and poetry. Sturdy, hardcover books are preferred. Also welcome are books in Braille, books with large print text, and professionally made or homemade story books accompanied by listen-along audio cassette tapes. For more information, please visit the website at <http://www.edu-negev.gov.il/bs/b4i/welcome.html> or contact Lynn Michalson at 212-626-4787 or Phyllis Brochstein at 212-754-4997.

Second Annual Or Zarua Blood Drive, February 29th

Planning for the second Or Zarua Blood Drive is underway and volunteers are needed now! The February 29th event will include a bone marrow registration drive, children's activities, and, of course, brunch!

Please contact James Rothman to help at 212-472-1739 or jarohtman2@aol.com. Let's make this drive a great success!

Dress an Israeli Bride

Wouldn't you rather put that wedding dress collecting dust in the closet to good use in Israel? With the assistance of Ziv Tzedakah Fund (www.ziv.org), gently-used wedding dresses are being collected for brides in Jerusalem. Rabbanit Bracha Kapach, who is known throughout Jerusalem for her charitable work, lends the donated dresses to young women in need. Now, because of the difficult economic situation in Israel, the need is greater than ever. Donating your dress is a loving way to perform the great mitzvah of hachnassat kallah—welcoming the bride. If you have a dress to donate, please drop it off at the Or Zarua office.

Or Zarua Congregants who volunteered to deliver Passover food and visit the elderly through DOROT on April 13, 2003.

EDUCATION: COURSE OFFERINGS

Question: What do a course in Modern Hebrew Language, adult Bar/Bat-Mitzvah instruction, and a Crash Course in Reading Hebrew have in common?

Answer: Many things. First, they will all be offered this fall at Or Zarua. But read on to discover further connections.

Building on last spring's introductory course, an advanced beginners' Hebrew language class will convene on Mondays on the synagogue's 7th floor, starting on Monday, October 27th. Classes will meet on consecutive Mondays at 7:30 p.m. for 10 weeks (except for December 22nd and 29th), so that the last class is scheduled for January 12th.

The only prerequisite for this course is a reading knowledge of Hebrew and familiarity with the Hebrew alphabet. (If you are not yet a Hebrew reader, do not despair; see the Crash Course in Reading Hebrew described below.) The course will include Hebrew conversation, use of multimedia (pictures, songs, Israeli newspapers, etc.), grammatical structures, and our beloved etymologies. Use of an appropriate textbook will be discussed. Please register with the office.

Also being offered on Monday nights at 6:30 p.m., immediately preceding the Hebrew language class, is an adult Bar/Bat-Mitzvah class. If you missed out the first time around, and today look on with feelings of longing when children come of age and do their Haftarah (signs of Bar/Bat-Mitzvah Deficiency Syndrome—a condition striking many mature women, but sometimes men, with a strong sense of deprivation), this course will provide the remedy. Or perhaps you would simply like to learn to do a Haftarah. Then this class is also for you. We will study as a group on Mondays, probably in the library. A reading knowledge of Hebrew is strongly suggested before one undertakes this course, as experience shows that it is easier that way. Please notify the office to register and for any further details.

This brings us to the Crash Course in Hebrew Reading. If you are interested in being able to follow the upcoming holiday services better, or you wish to meet the prerequisite for the Hebrew language course, or you want to make the adult Bar/Bat-Mitzvah class go more smoothly, then this is your course. Intensive lessons in reading should enable students to acquire a degree of fluency in following a Hebrew text, whether prayers or modern Hebrew vocabulary. The schedule is: Mondays and Tuesdays, September 8th, 9th, 15th, and 16th, and Monday, September 22nd, 7:00-8:30 p.m. at the synagogue. Again, please register at the office.

All courses will be taught by Mark Somerstein. We hope to see you in September and/or October. Make the connection.
